Pregnant woman dies after 'assault' by husband

CM orders arrest of accused as family stages protest with body

OUR CORRESPONDENT
HYDERABAD

A 27-year-old pregnant woman allegedly subjected to repeated domestic violence by her husband died during treatment following a childbirth operation, while her unborn twin daughters were also delivered dead, prompting her grieving family to stage a protest with her body outside the Hyderabad Press Club and demand the arrest of her husband and in-laws.

The tragic incident took a further turn after CM Murad sought an immediate and detailed report from the provincial police chief and Hyderabad DIG, and directed the authorities to arrest the prime suspect without delay.

The deceased, Sidra, had been married to Nauman for the past 10 years. She had three children from the marriage. Her family alleged that Nauman had subjected her to repeated physical abuse throughout their marriage, including during her pregnancy, when he allegedly kicked her in the abdomen. Fed up with the alleged violence, Sidra had moved to her parents' home around four months ago, taking her three children with her.

Speaking during the protest, mother Yasmeen alleged that the family had repeatedly approached the police and courts over the abuse, but her son-in-law managed to settle the matter each time through what she described as false excuses.

She said doctors had informed the family that Sidra was suffering from severe anaemia during her pregnancy. Despite being informed about her condition, her husband allegedly remained indifferent and refused to contribute towards her medical treatment.

During a childbirth operation on Tuesday, the twin girls she was carrying were delivered dead, reportedly due to her deteriorating health. Sidra was subsequently shifted to the ICU in critical condition but died early Wednesday morning.

Yasmeen further alleged that when Nauman arrived at the hospital after learning about his wife's death, he assaulted her son, Faizan, instead of offering condolences or support.

The bereaved family held Nauman, his parents, sisters and other in-laws responsible for Sidra's death.

Carrying her body in an ambulance, family members, including Sidra's three young children, staged a protest outside the Press Club, demanding that the authorities register a case against the nominated suspects and ensure their arrest.

Meanwhile, city police have initiated legal proceedings. CM Murad directed the police to immediately arrest the main suspect and bring those responsible to justice. He also assured the bereaved family that Sidra's three children would receive all possible protection.

KARACHI: Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) Sindh President Haleem Adil Sheikh on Thursday said another young girl had died after being attacked by stray dogs in the metropolis, taking the death toll from dog attacks to 43 this year. In a statement, Sheikh said more than 60,000 dog-bite cases had been reported in the city during the current year, describing the figures as alarming. He said Karachi had been left at the mercy of stray dogs, putting the lives of citizens, particularly children, at risk. He added that stray dogs had become a serious threat to public safety. The PTI leader said the latest death raised questions about the performance of the Sindh government and relevant institutions. He attributed the growing number of stray dogs and increasing dog-bite incidents to administrative negligence. Sheikh called for immediate emergency measures to control the stray dog population and protect citizens from further attacks. OUR CORRESPONDENT

'Sindh is not anyone's fiefdom'

KARACHI: Sindh government spokesperson Sadia Javed on Thursday strongly criticised Muttahida Qaumi Movement-Pakistan (MQM-P) leader Dr Khalid Maqbool Siddiqui, saying Sindh was not anyone's fiefdom but the mother of millions of Sindhis, and its division would never materialise. Invoking Article 239(4) of the Constitution, Sadia said no new province could be created without a two-thirds majority in the provincial assembly. Claims that the federal government could unilaterally create provinces reflected a lack of understanding of the Constitution, she added. She said historical municipal records from before Partition could not challenge Sindh's historical unity, while claiming a separate right over its territory under the pretext of population exchange amounted to prejudice. She also questioned objections to census results approved by MQM-P's own coalition partner in the federal government. Sadia said provinces were shaped by centuries-old cultural roots, not population figures, adding that the ideology dating back to 1978 had subjected Karachi to decades of violence. OUR CORRESPONDENT

Terrorism cases against officials over toxic water discharge

Petition cites 'absence of traffic lights, wardens' as main cause of chaos

HYDERABAD

The Sindh High Court (SHC) has called for the registration of terrorism cases against officials responsible for contaminating drinking water, observing that discharging untreated sewage, hospital waste and industrial effluent into the Indus River amounted to playing with human lives.

A divisional constitutional bench of the SHC comprising Justice Adnanul Karim and Justice Muhammad Jaffer expressed displeasure over the failure of relevant government departments to submit a comprehensive report on pollution in the river, despite its earlier directions.

The bench was hearing a constitutional petition filed by local lawyer Mansoor Ali Panhwar, seeking an assessment of water quality around Kotri Barrage, identification of pollution sources, including untreated sewage and medical and industrial waste, and a plan to address the contamination.

During the hearing, the court questioned who had authorised drains, sewerage systems and industrial units to discharge toxic waste into the river, which serves as a major source of drinking water. It observed that no one had the right to poison water consumed by the public.

The court remarked that supplying contaminated water was tantamount to putting people's lives at risk and that adding toxic substances to drinking water was a matter of life and death. It directed that the process of registering FIRs under the Anti-Terrorism Act be initiated against officials responsible for the contamination, from senior administrative officers to lower-level employees.

The bench also directed the relevant departments to inspect drinking water in their respective jurisdictions and deploy security personnel along the Indus and its canals to prevent the discharge of sewage and industrial waste into the waterways.

The court stated that it had directed the SEPA, the Public Health Engineering Department, and other relevant authorities on November 3 to submit a comprehensive report. However, the authorities had failed to do so.

The court directed that a comprehensive report covering pollution sources, responsible institutions, scientific assessment of water quality and proposed remedial measures be submitted within a week.

Meanwhile, untreated sewage, hospital waste and industrial effluent continue to flow into the Indus and its canals and distributaries.

CM urges Pak-BD cooperation on climate resilience

OUR CORRESPONDENT
KARACHI

Sindh Chief Minister Syed Murad Ali Shah has called for stronger institutional cooperation and sustained professional exchanges between Pakistan and Bangladesh, saying both countries can benefit from sharing experiences in governance, economic development, climate resilience and public service delivery.

He was speaking during a meeting with a delegation of senior Bangladeshi civil servants visiting Sindh under the Executive Leadership Training Programme of the National School of Public Policy (NSPP). The chief minister welcomed the delegation and highlighted Bangladesh's achievements in microfinance, women's empowerment, disaster preparedness and public service delivery. He particularly praised its Cyclone Preparedness Programme, volunteer networks and early warning systems, saying these initiatives offered valuable lessons for climate-vulnerable countries like Pakistan.

He also referred to Bangladesh's successful garment industry, Union Digital Centres and long-term development planning, including the Bangladesh Delta Plan 2100. The chief minister said that Sindh was keen to learn from Bangladesh's experience while sharing its own initiatives in poverty reduction, climate adaptation, women's empowerment and public welfare.

Three months for traffic issues

Court was informed 'absence of traffic lights, wardens main cause of chaos'

HYDERABAD

The Sindh High Court has given three months to the authorities in Hyderabad to prepare and implement a plan to address traffic congestion woes of the city. The order was given by Hyderabad Circuit Bench, in a petition filed by advocate Hatim Ali eight years ago.

The bench noted with concern the disclosure of DIG traffic Hyderabad that only one traffic signal, located at Pakistan Chowk, out of seven in the city was functional.

The bench ordered the authorities to restore all the traffic signals besides installing new signals at the three new locations.

The SHC directed DIG traffic, deputy commissioner and mayor to form a comprehensive traffic management plan.

They have also been asked to remove encroachment from roads and footpaths.

The DIG was directed to deploy traffic wardens in all areas of Hyderabad.

The bench underscored that the SHC could not plan or design the city's road infrastructure but that they can certainly order the concerned authorities to fulfill their obligation.
